Minden part of Olympic bid

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

If Toronto is chosen as the host city for the 1996 Summer Olympic Games, Minden will be the site for the white water slalom races.

Minden Reeve Ray Moore announced the news at last Wednesday's county council meeting and again on Thursday during Minden council.

County councillors responded to Moore's announcement with a round of applause.

"It's very nice to know that if the Toronto Olympic Committee is successful in its bid, Minden is confirmed for the white water event," Moore said at Thursday's Minden council meeting. "It will be something for the next council to get into."

If the Toronto bid is successful, the races will be held at Minden's Wild Water Preserve, which has already hosted two World Cup events in 1988 and 1989.

In a letter received by The Times, Robert Grose, the Olympic Liaison for the Wild Water Affiliation, says hosting the races in Minden "would provide a legacy for both the sport and the Haliburton Highlands area.

"The special significance of hosting the Olympics would provide Minden with a tremendous tourism boost to emphasize its many recreational and water resource attractions for several years leading up to the Olympics in August 1996 and many years thereafter," says Grose. "The spin-off effects to the local economy to prepare for the Olympics would be significant."

The Toronto Ontario Olympic Council has committed to upgrading of the facility to meet

UNDERWATER CLASSROOM: Members of the Ontario Provincial Police practiced their scuba diving techniques in the chilly waters of the Gull River last week. The four divers took to the water at Rotary Park and swam downstream to the Main Street Bridge, a journey that took about one hour and 45 minutes to complete. Along the way they picked up souvenirs from the bottom of the river including old bottles, boating equipment and a large collection of golf balls found in the area of the Beaverbrook golf course. Shown above, Marty Grant of the Millbrook detachment and Steve Thibadeau of the Apsley detachment compare loot as they come ashore. The divers practice about every two weeks.

County passes budget with 13% tax hike

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The County of Haliburton has passed its 1990 budget and residents are being asked to pay a 13 per cent increase in the county's levy.

Environment and planning are the two areas receiving the largest increases.

When presenting the budget to council at last Wednesday's meeting, Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis said it was county's "day of reckoning" and that it was "the one big day of the year when we set the course for 1990."

Before delving into the details of the budget, Davis posed several rhetorical questions for councillors to consider while examining the county's expenditures.

"Are we moving too far, too fast?" asked Davis. He said the council agrees that initiatives such as an economic development study and a county official plan are important but "do we have to do them all right today?"

Davis proposed a five-year priority list which would schedule costly projects over several years and could be updated annually.

"Are we, in a county with a limited population, trying to emulate areas with populations of 60,000 to 100,000?" he asked. He suggested that county try and take a pragmatic approach to spending.

Davis mentioned the recently passed federal budget in which the government worked towards cutting the annual deficit by reducing transfer payments to the province.

He also criticized the Ontario government for having the "audacity" to tell the public that they had finally balanced the provincial budget.

"That's balderdash," said Davis. He accused the province of reducing transfer payments to municipalities and said unconditional grants are a disaster.

By not living up to its commitments, like the expansion of the Haliburton

Hospital, Davis said the provincial government has created "political trust and confusion."

Having taken his shots at the province's fiscal performance, Davis then commended the county's management committee for arriving at a budget which he called "palatable."

He said the bottom line is accountability and fiscal responsibility. In a year when neighbouring counties are passing budgets with increases in taxes of up to 20 per cent, Davis commended the committee for the "great job" it did in holding the

Snowdon councillor Jack Hills dead at 68

Snowdon Township has lost a dedicated and involved member of the community.

Councillor Ernest (Jack) Hills died on Sunday, March 18 at his home near Kinmount at the age of 68.

Prior to retiring to the area 12 years ago, Mr. Hills served as Executive Assistant to the Chief Coroner of Ontario. In that capacity he was instrumental in establishing the present system of coroner's inquests, says his son, Ernie Hills.

Mr. Hills helped to implement the practice of convening a coroner's jury to investigate sudden or accidental deaths and having that jury make recommendations for preventing similar tragedies.

Ernie says that while living in Toronto, the family kept a cottage on the Gull River in Lutterworth. When the area began to get more developed, Mr. Hill bought a 100-acre piece of property on Hwy. 121 near Kinmount.

"He liked his privacy and wide open spaces," says Ernie. He says his father looked forward to an early retirement and really enjoyed his 12 years of full-time residency in Snowdon.

For Mr. Hills, retirement did not mean inactivity and he began to get involved in local organizations and politics.

He joined the local farmer's association, served on the board of directors for the Haliburton County Development Corporation and was involved with the Haliburton Bancroft Industrial Training Committee. Mr. Hills also served on the local advisory committee on unemployment.

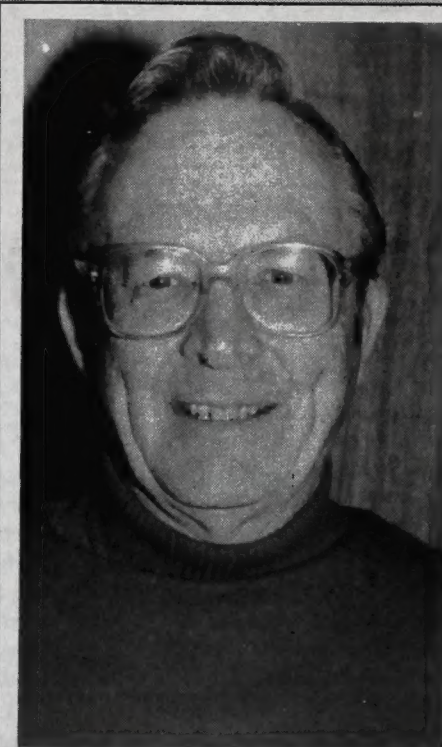

He was in his second term as a municipal councillor in Snowdon when he died.

Of all his activities, Ernie says his father particularly enjoyed the work he did with the Haliburton County Development Corporation. "He really thought of it as an excellent organization that makes a substantial contribution to the community," says Ernie.

As children, Ernie says his father would take the family to the cottage on weekends, even in the winter.

"He would clear a spot for the car, and then we would wade through the snow for half-an-hour to get to the cottage," says Ernie. "We were young and he was enthusiastic."

One of the highlights of Mr. Hills' career with the coroner's office, is when he investigated a plane crash north of JACK HILLS: The 12-year resident of Snowdon Township and municipal councillor died last Sunday at 68.

Toronto that killed 170 people in the early 1970's.

Ernie says he can remember the police coming to get Mr. Hills from the cottage at 3 a.m. to take him to the crash site.

Working at the crash site, Mr. Hills was involved in identifying the bodies of the victims, setting up a make-shift morgue and collecting evidence for Transportation Canada.

Mr. Hills had worked on mock situations of similar disasters, but Ernie says this was the first case involving loss of life where he had to put his theories into practice.

Although the investigation went well, Ernie says the crash took a great emotional toll on Mr. Hills because there was so many lives lost.

Mr. Hills job required him to travel throughout much of the province and Ernie says he was particularly taken with northern Ontario. "He loved it up there," says Ernie. "If he had moved again he would have continued to migrate north."

Mr. Hills is survived by his wife Joyce, and four children, Ernie, Beverley, Wendy and Barry. Funeral services were held on Wednesday at St. James Anglican Church in Kinmount.

Cottagers to meet about lake levels

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

In an effort to deal with problems relating to low water levels, the county plans to bring together representatives from various area cottagers' associations.

This initiative was announced at last Wednesday's county council meeting by Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis.

Davis said the water levels committee wants to organize a meeting involving cottagers' associations from all the reservoir lakes.

One of the issues that will need to be resolved is the question of equalized drawdown. Under the current system, water from all the reservoir lakes is drawn down at the same rate.

The system is considered fair by its supporters because they feel no one lake should enjoy higher water levels at the expense of the rest of the system.

But recently the Hawk Lake cottagers' association has asked for relief from equalized drawdown by requesting that a seven-foot drawdown limit be imposed on their lake.

At the end of February Hawk lake cottager Dr. William Brown appeared before County Council to ask for support to the drawdown limit proposal.

Brown said Hawk Lake has experienced drops in water levels of up to 13 feet and neighbouring Eels Lake suffers drawdowns of up to 12 feet. These extreme drops have caused navigation problems for boaters on these two lakes.

Brown said a maximum drawdown of seven feet on these two lakes would solve many of their navigational problems and have only a minor impact on the rest of the lakes in the reservoir system.

Stanhope Council has endorsed the request for a drawdown limit but the Haliburton Highlands Water Levels Advisory Committee has previously turned down a similar request.

But if the Hawk Lake cottagers plan to pursue their desire for a drawdown limit, they can expect opposition from the municipality of Dysart et al.

At last Monday's council meeting Dysart Reeve Bill Davis began collecting ammunition for the battle.

Davis was anticipating a resolution at Wednesday's county meeting to support the drawdown limit for Hawk Lake. He asked Dysart council to pass a resolution endorsing the concept of equalized drawdown and opposing any move to limit the amount of water taken from any one lake.

He noted that the water levels advisory committee had introduced the concept of equalized drawdown but "Hawk Lake feels it can't adequately operate by living with this drawdown," said Davis. He said the effect of the seven-foot limit would be felt by the entire reservoir lake chain.

Besides the resolution from council, Davis said he also wants support from cottage associations who's lakes would be adversely affected by a limited drawdown on Hawk Lake.

"I want to go with as much artillery as I can," he said.

"I understand Hawk Lake's problem," said Davis. "But unequal distribution puts the problem somewhere else."

Councillor Murray Fearrey said that putting a drawdown limit on Hawk Lake would set a precedent for other reservoir lakes that suffer low lake levels in the summer.

Davis also took issue with the membership of the water levels advisory committee. The reservoir lakes are based on three water sheds along the Gull, Burnt and Drag rivers but Davis said the committee is based mainly on the Gull River system.

He said there should be representation from the other watersheds as well.

Creating additional reservoir lakes has been accepted as the only permanent solution to low lake levels, but there has been little optimism for the idea among the various levels of government.

Fearrey suggested that if local municipalities began showing some initiative towards planning for additional reservoirs, it might be easier to get the federal and provincial government involved.

facility to meet Olympic standards and the cost will be the responsibility of the Olympic organizing committee, says Grose.

Toronto recently submitted its bid to host the 1996 games to the International Olympic Committee. The Committee will be deciding on where the games will be held at its meeting in September.

If Toronto is successful, and Minden gets its chance to host Olympic races, one issue that will need to be addressed is parking and traffic along Horseshoe Lake Road, where the Wild Water Preserve is located.

Problems have arisen along the section of road adjacent to the race course during previous events with cars parked along both sides of the road.

The description of the Preserve in Toronto's bid to the International Olympic Committee says the site can accommodate up to 5,000 spectators which would require much more parking than is now available.

At last Wednesday's meeting, County Warden Don Shortreed said the parking problem will have to be addressed and he suggested that a shuttle bus might be needed to accommodate the spectators.

In an interview on Friday, Grose said it's still too early to begin worrying about details like parking. He said if the Toronto bid is accepted organizers will have five or six years to iron out the specific details for holding the event in Minden.

If the races are held in Minden in 1996, Grose said there will be preliminary races held here in the years leading up to the Olympics in order to refine the site.

Realistically, Grose said spectators will probably be bused to the site from outlying parking lots, as is done with similar venues for other events.

Editorial

Part of the attraction of living in a small town is the sense of security one feels by being removed from the problems of life in large urban centres.

But this same sense of security can also make people slow to respond to real and present dangers.

Take the story of Evelyn and Darryl McKenzie, featured in this week's edition.

For several years, the McKenzies have tried to stir up interest in the community about child safety, especially the problem of missing or abducted children. Their commitment to the cause is borne out of concern for their grandson, but applies to all children.

The response has been less than overwhelming, to say the least.

Most people will agree that protecting children is a good idea, but there is a feeling that the issue isn't a priority in Minden because our children don't go missing.

How many children should be sacrificed before it is considered a problem? Five? Ten?

The idea of preventative education is to take appropriate action before tragedy strikes. After the first child is threatened, it's already become too late.

Inspired by the McKenzies' concern, The Times and the Archie Stouffer Home and School Association have decided to promote child protection education in the area.

A seminar, to be conducted by Judy McDonald of Child Find, is being planned for April in order to present parents with the opportunity to learn how to best protect their children.

We urge all parents to attend the seminar and take advantage of McDonald's expertise and advice. All it will require is an evening of your time and an interest in your child's safety.

Minden is still a relatively safe place to raise a child, and chances are the threat of abduction by a stranger or family member will never occur.

But do you really want to take that chance?

"IF WE'RE BOTH WRONG, WE COULD BOTH FACE MALPRACTICE SUITS."

Europe is flush with Royals waiting to return

It's been said before, but it bears repeating: these are fabulous times for millions of fortunate folk in Eastern Europe. The tyrannical yokes of evil despots from Eric Honecker to Nicolae Ceausescu have been shucked off and slung in the cobbled gutter of history. Many a heart bubbles over with the heady froth of freedom.

Most particularly the thoroughbred hearts that beat with the patrician breasts of Michael, Otto, Alex, Nicholas, Simeon and Leka.

The aforementioned chappies constitute a royal six-pack, currently drumming their fingers, whistling under their breath and marking time in various five star hotels and blue-blood spas around the world.

Michael is King Michael of Romania.

Otto is Archduke Otto Von Hapsburg.

Alex is Crown Prince Alexander of Yugoslavia.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

Nicholas is King Nicholas II of Montenegro.

Simeon is King Simeon II of Bulgaria.

Leka is King of Albania.

They are mighty monarch, every one. They possess loyal subjects, palatial mansions, fabulous treasures and all the pomp, splendour and pageantry that customarily accrue to sovereign leaders.

They think.

All they need to become royalty in reality is to convince their countries to take them back. Otto, Mike, Nick, Alex, Simeon and Leka are what you might call royalty in waiting. Mothballed monarchy, if you will. They don't actually wear crowns or sit on thrones because their predecessors were thrown out of their jobs when the Communists took over the reins. (Or reigns.) Since then, they've been rulers in absentia, marking time in exile, casting wistful glances at their rightful kingdoms.

Strange thing, this royalty business, when you think about it. What perverse quirk of human nature compels some nations to single out a family of mortals and give them semi-divine powers? It's not as if the royals are ennobled by the preferential treatment. Look at some of the blueblood bozos of history—We've had winners like Pepin the Short, and Joanna the Mad, Charles the Simple and Karl the Fat. Not to mention Ethelred the Unready, and of

Support for English only resolutions

Editor:

I wish to congratulate our Council for their action in passing an "English Only" by-law.

Are these whiners aware of the fact that in the Province of Quebec it is against the law for a store owner to display a sign in English on their own premises their means of earning a living?

Before retiring to Minden I went through the changes in the business world when the government required every printed word on any product to appear in both English and French.

Millions of dollars were spent to please a very small minority of the population of this country.

I think we have paid the price and we should let English be the accepted language in Canada.

Yours truly
Helen D. Burton

Distressing

Editor:

I found it rather distressing to read about the Archie Stouffer School Annex "Air quality compromise." Some of the comments by the Board of Education trustees during this ongoing issue needs to be addressed. For example, does the assumption that the old I.G.A. building is a temporary facility for students justify 1 1/2 years of near inertia on the part of the board?

The ministry of labour tested and found the building's air quality to be unacceptable, as did the ministry of health, who registered their concerns along with written remedial recommencourse Ivan the Terrible.

Bright? Henry II slept with raw veal chops on his cheeks, his hands lathered in pomade so that they would be white in the morning.

Sane? Prince Otto of Bavaria barked like a dog and once kept his boots on for two months.

Cultured? Carlos II of Parma collected pornographic watches.

Tasteful? King Leopold of Belgium wore a black wig, a feather boa, rouge, and shoes with three-inch-soles.

Then of course there are the royal losers thrown up in this century—the gluttonous King Farouk, the reptilian Shah of Iran, the dithering Dagoodian Duke of Windsor.

Truth to tell, the six Men Who Would Be Kings now poised to reclaim their birthrights in Eastern Europe seem to be more equipped for the task than the average royal. Only Leka I of Albania shows definite signs of the loopy, off-the-palace-wall behaviour we've come to expect from kooky kings.

Vintage imperial looniness.

Which is maybe the only real job description that out-of-work sovereigns have a reasonable shot at these days. To quote an expert: "Royal personages are like clowns. They amuse the people, even with their funerals, and keep them contented."

I didn't say that—Marie did.

Missing: Protecting children from strangers is important, but so is knowing how

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

There will always be people who will try to make money by exploiting people's fears.

Just ask Evelyn and Darryl McKenzie. This Minden couple is very concerned about protecting children from the danger of stranger abduction and have been trying to raise public awareness about the issue.

In an effort to provide protection for their grandson Corey Smith, of whom the McKenzies have custody, they joined the Canadian Missing Children Systems (CMCS).

CMCS sent the McKenzies an Emergency Identification package which consisted of a form to write down information about the child and a kit to record the child's fingerprints, photo and a lock of hair.

If the child ever went missing, they are supposed to turn the information over to the police to aid search efforts.

The company also promised to spend up to $2,000 in missing children's posters and organize door-to-door searches if a child registered in the program goes missing.

For a parent concerned about the danger of child abduction, CMCS sells itself as a valuable form of protection.

The only problem is, the company doesn't exist anymore and never provided the services it promised.

After speaking with the McKenzies, The Times tried to contact CMCS for more information on its operation. The company's form lists six telephone numbers from across Canada, but all the numbers were either out of service or the phone wasn't answered.

The CMCS also displayed a Better Business Bureau logo on its forms although a Bureau employee told The Times the agency has never heard of CMCS and CMCS has never been a member of the agency.

The executive director of Child Find told The Times CMCS has been out of existence for several years, and its operation is under investigation by the Ontario Provincial Police.

Judy McDonald says the owners of CMCS declared bankruptcy and disappeared with $500,000 they had collected from people buying their service.

Child Find is a non-profit registered charity that acts as a national network assisting in the location of abducted and missing children.

McDonald said CMCS would charge parents anywhere between $30 and $60 for the identification kits that provided no protection for children at all.

Even though there are legitimate companies offering the same services as CMCS, McDonald says these systems do nothing to protect a child from being abducted and are of equally no use in finding missing child.

"A lot of companies play on the stranger abduction theory," says McDonald. "But in Canada we don't have a very high rate of stranger abduction."

She says a large majority of missing children are run-aways and of those who are abducted, most are taken by a parent during a marriage break-up. "There are very, very few cases of stranger abduction."

If a child does go missing, having a copy of the fingerprints won't help the police locate him. McDonald says the only practical application of having the fingerprints is to identify a body.

"Taking fingerprints can't protect a child," she says. "It's just giving parents a false sense of security."

In order to locate a child using fingerprints, McDonald says the police would have to fingerprint every child walking around, something that would be utterly impossible to do.

Although Child Find does operate child fingerprinting clinics, McDonald says it's done as a way of initiating child safety dialogue between parents and their children.

Child Find also offers the service free, while companies charge anywhere from $15 and up. "To have to pay for that is not right," says McDonald. "No one should have to pay to fingerprint their own kids, especially since it doesn't offer the kind of protection companies claim."

As well as the fingerprinting, Child Find provides booklets for parents to record all relevant information about their children, also free of charge.

But the real key to protecting children is education, says McDonald. Education for both parents and children about measures that can be taken to keep children as safe as possible.

Child Find offers educational seminars and workshops as well as offering information on Block Parent programs and 'streetproofing' children.

Constable Mike Maybee of the Minden OPP agrees with McDonald's assessment of child identification systems. Although fingerprints would help identify a body, Maybee says they do little else to help missing children cases.

Proper education helps protect children from abduction before it ever happens, says Maybee. He says this includes teaching children to be careful around strangers and encouraging parents to always know where their kids are, with whom, and how long they will be gone. "That's more important than a set of prints," he says.

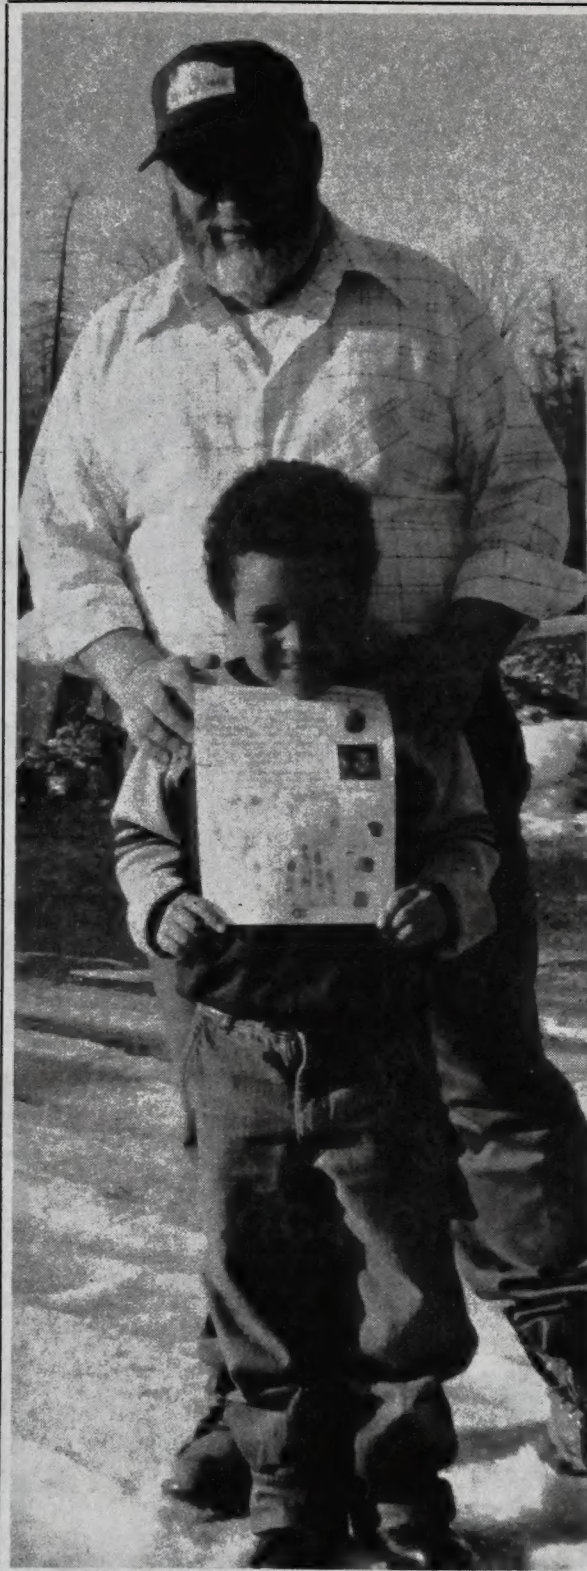

The McKenzies were lucky in dealing with CMCS because they never had to pay the fee for their identification system. Still, Evelyn says the fact that a company like CMCS can operate the way it did really upsets her.

Despite their experience with the company, the McKenzies are strongly committed to trying to raise public awareness about child safety.

Evelyn says that ever since Corey was two years old she has been teaching him a program called Red Light, Green Light. The program is from a book and teaches children to avoid dangerous situations, known as red lights, like talking to strangers or accepting rides from people they don't know.

Even though Corey, now seven-years-old, can identify red-light situations, Evelyn says she still has trouble stopping him from talking to strangers. A friendly and trusting person, Corey is always eager to strike up a conversation about one of his two favorite subjects, snowmobiles and fishing. "I wish he was a little more shy," says Evelyn.

The McKenzies have been trying to stir up some interest in child safety education locally, but have found that people seem less worried than they do in the city.

Evelyn and Darryl McKenzie are concerned about protecting their grandson and found that some companies sell systems that are long on promises but short on protection. Darryl and Corey, left, display one of the fraudulent systems.

While living in Toronto they participated in a Block Parent program and feel there should be a similar program in Minden.

They also encourage people to take a more active interest in their child's activities. A few years ago they threw a birthday party for Corey and Evelyn says she was shocked at the number of parents who dropped their kids off in the driveway and never bothered to come to the door.

"They didn't know us," she says. "How can you leave your child with people you've never met."

"Parents here are too trusting," agrees Darryl. He says that because Minden is a tourist area, thousands of people pass through and it would be simple for someone to grab a child and disappear. "It can happen here just as easily as in the city," he says.

Darryl appreciates the We Care program, being taught in the schools which alerts children to the dangers of sexual assault and says some sort of street-proofing education should be taught in conjunction with that.

"This is a good area and a safe area," says Darryl. "But it can still happen here. Why wait until it happens?"

"A lot of people might think we're overcautious," he says. "But how can you be overcautious with a child? They have no caution of their own."

Maybee says there are no local child safety education programs available. Although the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides do it "to a degree" Maybee says local opportunities are sporadic.

McDonald says Child Find would welcome the opportunity to hold a clinic locally. The clinics themselves are free but the organization does ask that its expenses are covered. She says in most cases the clinics are sponsored by a service club.

Maybee thinks such a seminar is "an excellent idea" and says he would be glad to participate in such an endeavour.

Fair boards and snowmobile clubs lose in budget

Topping the list of expenditure increases was the environment. The 95 per cent increase is due mainly to the Gypsy Moth spraying program which the county is participating in this year. The program carries a $19,600. The other large expenditure in this area is $30,000 for the Waste Management Master Plan, most of which is carried over from last year's budget.

Planning and development has been increased by 42 per cent over last year. Most of this is accounted for by a 70 per cent increase in expenses for the Land Division Committee and the creation of a position for a county planner.

The Chamber of Commerce, which falls under the planning and development umbrella, had asked for $84,000 from the county but was given $70,000 the same amount as last year.

"We felt the Chamber should finance its own way through this difficult year," said Davis.

Losers in this year's budget will be local snowmobile associations and fair boards. The county has discontinued its annual grants to these organizations.

Last year the county gave at total of $5,000 to the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, the Paudash Trailblazers and the Dorset Snowmobile Club and $500 each to the Monmouth and Haliburton County Fair Boards. This year these grants won't be available.

In chopping the recreation budget, Davis said the Management Committee felt it was "a frill we couldn't afford."

A winner in the recreation and cultural services budget was the county library system. The library budget was increased 68 per cent from $36,000 to $60,540.

The other large budget increase occurred in social and family services, which increased by 29 per cent over last year. The largest single beneficiary of this increase is the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home which saw its budget grow by 35 per cent, from $290,000 to $412,000. Other budget highlights include:

An increase of 16 per cent for general government due to the creation of a position for a payroll clerk.

A 50 per cent decrease in protection to persons and property because of the discontinuation of the wolf bounty.

A six per cent increase in transportation, and

A seven per cent increase in health services.

On the revenue side, the county predicts increases in every area. One of the largest increases will come from money raised by Land Division applications, which is expected to almost double to $125,000.

These increases in revenue will help offset the total budget increase of 19 per cent, allowing taxes to increase by only 13 per cent. In total the county expects to spend $2,252,399 in 1990.

Last year the county increased taxes by 7.4 per cent.

After Davis presented the budget, Warden Don Shortreed said the Management Committee struggled with the document and "weighed carefully the priorities." He said the environment is one area the county can't turn its back on and has to be addressed now.

Museum needs more money to increase salaries

The Haliburton Highlands Museum has presented its 1990 wishlist to Dysart et al council for consideration.

The museum committee is requesting an increase of almost $10,000 over last year's municipal grant and most of that money is to increase the salaries of the museum's director and curator.

In presenting the budget proposal to council, committee member Larry Podmore said the increases are needed to bring the salaries in line with provincial averages.

Podmore said the two museum employees are not included in the salary negotiations with the rest of Dysart's non-union staff, and that the wage increases would bring the salaries up to a level paid by other comparable museums in Ontario.

"It's a case of catch-up," said Podmore. He said the pay raise would "put the director in a reasonable place in the municipal hierarchy."

Currently the director's salary is about the same as the sewage treatment plant operator and the curator is paid about the same as the arena staff. The raises would increase director Tom Ballantine's annual earnings to $28,500 from $24,557 and the curator's salary to $23,000 from $19,854.

Last year 3,600 people visited the museum and councillor Murray Fearrey questioned why only $3,558 had been collected from admissions.

Ballantine said the museum charges admission rates that vary with the season, the summer rate being higher than the winter rate. "I'd love to charge more," said Ballantine, "but people object to any admission fee."

He said the rates are fairly standard across the province.

Podmore said the increase in this year's budget was carefully arrived upon. "We're not giving you the budget hoping to get 75 per cent of what we asked for," said Podmore. "This is a realistic budget."

For the past three years, Dysart has granted the museum $60,000, a short fall of anywhere from $2,800 to $5,475 of what the committee requested.

If the amount had been increased five per cent a year since 1986, Podmore said this year's grant would almost equal the amount requested.

"We know this is not a good year," said Podmore. But with the impact of provincial and federal cutbacks, he said next year will be even worse for the municipality. By asking for the larger increase this year, Podmore said the committee would ask for a realistic increase next year.

Reeve Bill Davis said the council will review the museum's request when they set the overall municipal budget.

County buys land to relocate its offices

The County of Haliburton took the first step towards relocating its offices last week when council approved the purchase of property on Highway 121 at the Allsaw Flats.

Councillors approved a recommendation by the Management Committee to spend $44,000 on the 4.6 acre site for the future location of the county offices.

County Warden Don Shortreed said the decision was made to relocate the offices instead of renovating the county's present home on Newcastle Street in Minden.

The decision was based on the condition of the old building as well as the lack of adequate parking facilities, said Shortreed.

The money for the property came from a $100,000 reserve fund that was established last year.

The new location for the offices is still in Minden Township and after Shortreed's announcement Minden Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said it is nice to see that the new location is still near the county town.

On Friday, Shortreed told The Times that it's still uncertain when the new county offices will be built on the new property. He said the timing of construction depends on the county's economic situation.

The possibility of relocating the county offices has been discussed for several years and Shortreed said he would like to see work on the new site begin next year.

The first phase of the move will involve relocating only those county offices now housed in the main building. For the time being the registry office will stay in its current Newcastle Street location across from the county offices.

But the size of the Highway 121 location will allow for expansion in the future says Shortreed. He said the location is well suited for county's purposes because it is halfway between the two main centres of Haliburton and Minden.

Faraday Township can't find takers for its waste

Faraday Township isn't having much luck trying to find someone willing to take its garbage.

The municipality, located in Hastings County, is operating its present landfill site under a Provisional Certificate of Approval that expires this June.

Faraday is hoping to get a new Certificate from the Ministry of the Environment, but one of the conditions is that the township must develop a contingency plan for waste disposal if the present site can no longer be used.

Faraday has sent a letter to area municipalities seeking permission to use their landfill site as an alternate waste disposal location.

At last week's council meeting, Dysart council made it clear they have no desire to accept waste from outside the municipality.

Reeve Bill Davis said that county had considered Faraday's request and "turned it down flat." He suggested that Dysart issue a similar response.

Davis said Dysart can't afford to accept waste from other municipalities in order to protect the "livelihood of our landfill sites."

Winners of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 636, public speaking contest will have their names engraved on a plaque which is displayed at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Bryn Gray, left, was the junior division winner while Damon Smith captured the intermediate honours. The winners pose with Legion representatives, competition chairman Dave McAdam and President Sally Bonner.

Students speak out at Legion

An amusing and revealing story about a Welsh-born grandmother and a satirical look at advertising were the topics of the winning junior and intermediate entries in the Royal Canadian Legion Public Speaking Contest.

The finals were held Thursday at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. The two winners in the local competition, sponsored by Branch 636 of the Royal Canadian Legion, went on to regional competition in Lindsay on Sunday.

Bryn Gray, a grade six student, delighted the audience with tales about his grandmother and her amusing ways. His humorous accounts of what he saw as her eccentric outlook on life were presented in an entertaining manner.

Damon Smith took a biting look at efforts of television advertisers to influence the public's buying habits. He found the daily barrage of television advertising to be mind-numbing, sometimes misleading and often amusing. The grade eight student finished his presentation by testing one soap commercial theory. Removing both his socks, he dunked them in cold water and two brands of laundry soap to show how his finding did not match those seen on TV.

Runner-up in the junior division was Matthew Hefner, grade five, who spoke on the Monarch Butterfly. Grade eight student Tammy Howard was runner-up in the intermediate division. She spoke on her years in elementary school.

Others in the competition included: Junior Division - Nathan Johnson (Bears), Tonya Gartshore, (Her Life as a Baby), Kevin Brezina (His New Puppy), Scott Bailey (Wayne Gretzky), and Jessica Wallace (Traveling With a Family of Six). Senior Division: Cara Donnelly, (Spina Bifida), and Anna Tomlinson (Bubble Gum).

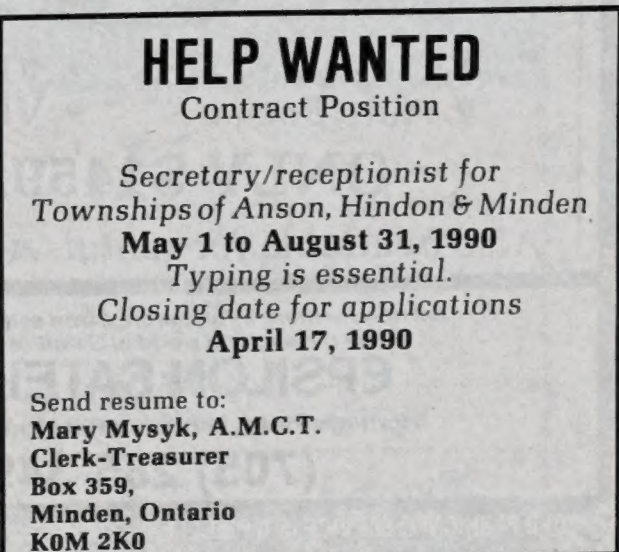

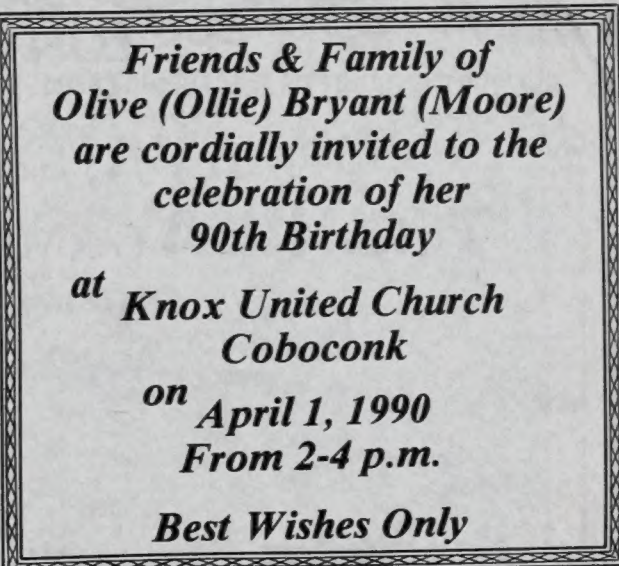

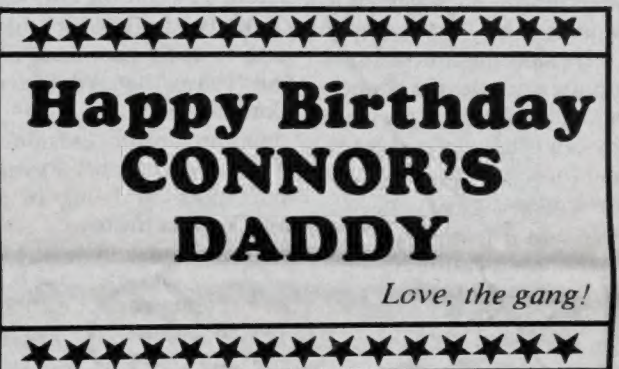

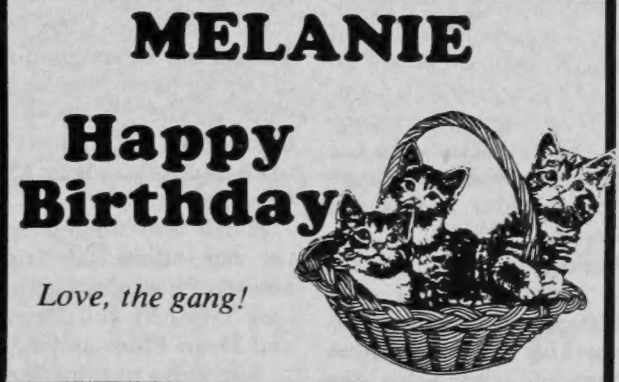

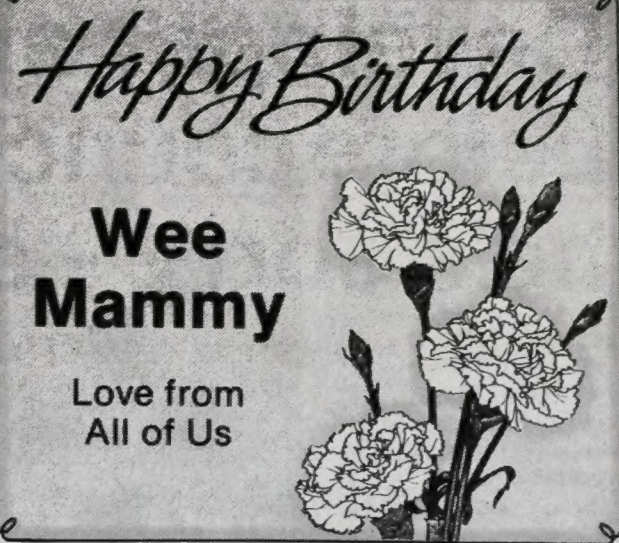

All of the contestants received a certificate of participation from Legion President Sally Bonner.

Developer appears before council to say he's sorry - sort of

A local developer delivered a back-handed 'apology' to Minden council last Thursday for some of his recent comments.

Bruce Harris, an outspoken critic of the Planning Advisory Committee and of Minden's new building regulations appeared briefly before council to read a prepared statement.

"I apologize to everyone in this community for the problems I've created by being under the stupid impression that I lived in a free country," began Harris.

"I should have known better than to try and do anything in a town whose coat of arms bears the inscription 'As it was, so it is, may it be'."

He said the motto sums up the attitude of a council who unanimously passed a by-law "that can put me in jail for digging hole on my own property."

"I am truly sorry for spending $110,000 to create a scar on the face of Minden," said Harris. He was referring to one of the excavations on Bobcaygeon Road, which have been referred to as 'scars' at recent council meetings.

He said he was sorry for demanding the resignation of Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry who he said "is doing a fantastic job of keeping this town the way it was 150 years ago."

Harris also 'apologized' for demanding the resignation of planning committee members Bill Payne and Dean Elliot and said he was naive to think that "these outstanding citizens could ever think of personal gain in their positions on the Planning Advisory Committee."

On previous occasions, Harris has accused Payne and Elliot of being in a conflict of interest in serving on the committee because both are active in real estate.

"I agree with council that Minden should not allow excavations in their town and that all the independent contractors with their expensive excavating equipment should keep it on their front lawns where they can watch it rust," said Harris. "Nobody wants these stupid modern machines around here anyway."

Harris was referring to a by-law passed by Minden council at the end of February which puts control of excavations for the purpose of construction into the hands of the municipal by-law enforcement officer.

The by-law requires developers to obtain a building permit before doing any work on a construction site,

OLD FASHIONED SERVICE IS A PRICELESS COMPONENT OF EVERYTHING WE SELL

Dysart declines unilingual resolution

Reeve Bill Davis says County did the 'right thing for the wrong reason'

At least one municipality in Haliburton County has opted not to become involved in the English-only debate.

At its last meeting, Dysart council received a letter from the city of Sault Ste. Marie which asks Ontario municipalities to declare English as the only working language.

But unlike five other Haliburton townships and County Council, Dysart council opted to give the request little time and no support.

"The county has already dealt with it," said councillor Murray Fearrey.

"That's where the onus should be," agreed Reeve Bill Davis. "I don't think small municipalities should be involved. Our umbrella, the county, has already supported the action."

But Fearrey said that when the county declared English as the only working language, "they didn't do it with the right understanding."

"I agree," said Davis. "The right thing was done for the wrong reason."

With no further discussion on the topic, the issue died. And although Dysart did not declare itself English-only, the council didn't support a resolution from Metro Toronto asking municipalities to recognize and promote the two official languages.

Metro Toronto council adopted the resolution in February in an effort to counter the English-only movement in the province prompted by Sault Ste. Marie's declaration.

To date more than 50 Ontario municipalities have declared themselves English-only. The move is in response to the provincial French Language Services Act (Bill 8) which requires provincial services to be offered in both French and English where there is sufficient Francophone population.

Although Bill 8 does not require municipalities to offer services in French, some councils feel there is a growing trend towards official bilingualism in Ontario.

The argument against bilingualism is based on economics. Municipalities say they won't be able to afford to provide services in both languages to accommodate the minority of Francophone residents.

In countering the tide of English-only declarations in Ontario, the Metro Toronto council recognized that Bill 8 does not affect municipalities and referred to the French as "one of the original founding peoples of this nation" who have made a "great contribution

... throughout the Province of Ontario."

Among the local municipalities, Snowdon, Glamorgan, Minden, Sherbourne and Lutterworth have all passed resolutions declaring English as their only official language.

During the debate at County Council on the issue, Dysart Deputy-Reeve Lloyd Leadbetter spoke out strongly against the move to unilingualism, saying "we have to accept the principal that we're going to have to live with two languages."

Highlands booth attracts thousands

The Haliburton Highlands was well represented at the annual Sportsmen's Show in Toronto last week. In addition to the colourful display mounted by the Chamber of Commerce, numerous area businesses, including outfitters, air charter services, resorts and real estate offices were in attendance to spread the word about this area of the province.

While the Chamber of Commerce handed out thousands of brochures to those interested in the Highlands, they also attracted a great deal of interest with a "Looney Draw". For one looney, appropriately inserted in a loon shaped coin bank, visitors to the booth could buy a chance on winning $1000.00 credit redeemable at Chamber of Commerce member businesses.

George Hewitt's rink managed to win all three of its games in the Straw and Stone Bonspiel at the Minden Curling Club on March 17 to take first place honours. Curling with Hewitt in this one-day 'spiel were Sally Bonner, Molly McCarthy and Shirley Collis.

Frank Franzen's rink came up big in its final game of the Straw and Stone Bonspiel to edge out Dave Camelon's team for second place. Curling with Franzen were Pauline Franzen, Wayne Wilson and Mary-Anne Wilson.

Straw and Stone Bonspiel was an outstanding success

In spite of troublesome ice conditions and a low turnout, the annual Straw and Stone Bonspiel at the Minden Curling Club was a success again this year.

On March 17, eight teams took part in this fun, in-club 'spiel. Problems with the ice-making equipment limited the action to two sheets, forcing the event to be played in two draws.

George Hewitt led his team to three strong wins, compiling enough points to take the overall title.

After a shaky start, Frank Franzen's rink came on strong with two wins to take second place.

Dave Camelon's rink came in third, just a quarter of a point behind Franzen. Sharon Kernohan's team was fourth and Mike May-bee's team was fifth.

As usual for this bonspiel, most teams dressed up in costumes to vie for prizes. Shirley Collis, who dressed up as a robot and brought along an inflatable assistant captured the prize for the best individual costume.

Reg Munns' team took advantage of the St. Patrick's Day theme and dressed up as Leprechauns to win the best team costumes. Tony Orecchio's team of clowns gets honourable mention

Home has Westside on the ropes with win

The fate of the Westside Jug City Men's Hockey team will be decided tonight (Monday) as they face off against the boys from Home Hardware in the second game of the best of three finals.

The Home team moved one step closer to victory last Monday as they beat Westside 3-1 to take the advantage in the series.

Home's Doug Schell opened the scoring the first period when with assists by Scott Hamilton and Barry Shaw. The team increased its lead in the second period on a goal courtesy of Andy Campbell, with help from Hamilton and Kim Colliss.

But as was the story during the regular season, Westside refused to roll over and play dead. They mounted a spirited attack on Home's end of the ice and were rewarded with their first goal of the night when Sid MacKeigan scored on a pass from Dave Crego to bring Westside within one goal of a tie.

Home secured their lead only minutes later, however, when Hamilton capped off a rush with the team's third goal, assisted by Colliss and Shaw.

There were some tense moments for Home goalie Kevin Smith in the third period when he found himself on the receiving end of blow from the upraised stick of Westside player Rob Crowe.

After a brief rest, stretched out on the ice, Smith resumed his position between the posts and Crowe took up his position in the penalty box.

The two teams meet again tonight. Home is looking for a win to capture the championship and Westside will be trying to force a third game.

LYING DOWN ON THE JOB: Home Hardware goalie Kevin Smith kept a close eye on the puck during last Monday's play-off game against Westside Jug City. Smith and his teammates overcame Westside to clinch a 3-1 victory in the first game of the best of three series.

Council refuses to bite at Harris' baited speech and sets a 60-day time limit on how long an excavation may be left standing before construction commences.

Anyone contravening the by-law is liable to a fine of up to $2,000, a year in prison or both under the Building Code Act.

"We should all stay down on the farm and back in the bush, logging and cutting firewood for Minden's increasingly imported, well paid, government civil servants who are sent here to buy up all available housing and help us observe government regulations," Harris told council. "No new houses will ever be built around here anymore anyway."

When Harris finished, Reeve Ray Moore thanked him for his comments and invited responses from council members.

There weren't any.

Minden Hydro beats 10 teams in tourney

On Saturday, March 17, Minden Ontario Hydro played in a regional hockey tournament in Penatanguishine. It was a 10 team tournament with teams from Fenelon Falls, Barrie, Orangeville, Alliston, Walkerton, Essa, Hanover, Huntsville and Parry Sound.

Minden won the tournament by defeating Hanover

2-1, Orangeville 3-2 in a shoot-out and Alliston 3-2 in a shoot-out. Huntsville defeated Fenelon 2-1 on the consolation side.

Steve McIntyre, a customer service representative, played goal and was outstanding, only allowing five goals in regulation time and none in the shoot-outs.

Dave Hartwick clinched the shoot-outs by scoring in each one.

It was well hosted by the Penatanguishine area and Minden is looking forward to defending the title next year in Walkerton.

Nature-nurture controversy rages on

Reflections

by Dr. David Suzuki

Thirty years ago as a graduate student in genetics, I and my peers were thrilled with the implications of the proposed molecular structure of DNA, the genetic material. The "Watson-Crick" model of DNA explained many aspects of biology, from evolution to development and behaviour.

At a seminar, my professor explained that the change from a fertilized egg into a mature organism reflected genes being turned off and on in proper sequence. A graduate student in embryology, exclaimed in mock frustration "You geneticists are always trying to take over everything in biology". He was expressing a longstanding debate in biology over the importance of the nucleus, a structure encapsulating the genetic material, and the cytoplasm, the rest of the protoplasm of the cell.

Embryologists emphasize the fact that the cytoplasm of an egg is many times larger than the nucleus and that a newly fertilized egg from which the nucleus is removed will still go through the early stages of development. Geneticists counter that a sperm is almost all nucleus and many times smaller than the mother's egg, yet on average, offspring look as much like the father as the mother. Further-more, the early development of an egg is controlled by genetic instructions from the mother's genes in the ovary.

Like blind people describing an elephant from different parts of the animal, geneticists and embryologists look at the same processes from different perspectives. In fact, there is no winner in the the cytoplasm vs nucleus debate. Both are important and one cannot exist or function without the other.

It's the same thing with the nature-nurture controversy over whether genes (nature) or the environment (nurture) are more important in shaping one's intelligence. Early in this century, intoxicated with insights gained in the young science of genetics, geneticists proclaimed that behaviour in people was primarily under genetic control. Much of their evidence was based on inheritance of physical properties like feather pattern in birds and hair shape in fruitflies.

After World War II, revulsion against that application of hereditary ideas by Nazi Germany, caused scientists to shift their emphasis on the environment as the dominant influence on human intelligence and behaviour. It's worth noting that this change occurred without any new discoveries in science—it was an expression of a scientist's belief, bias or intuition.

Today as our ability to manipulate the blueprint of life accelerates, the importance of nature has once again become a popular view. As scientists race to determine the complete sequence of genetic letters in the DNA of a human cell (that's 3 billion letters), claims of a hereditary basis for numerous human traits including behaviour and aging are being made. It is this hereditary climate that gives apparent legitimacy to the outlandish claims of University of Western Ontario psychologist, Philippe Rushton about complex behavioural traits of different racial groups.

But it is essentially a pointless exercise to debate about the relative role of nature vs nurture on human intelligence. Of course there is a hereditary component to intelligence. The human brain like any other part of the body is under genetic control and a complex organ like the brain will be affected by many genes. But that brain does not exist in a vacuum. The great survival trait conferred by the human brain in its plasticity, its ability to respond and adapt to new environments. And the influence of the environment in turn affects the way the brain behaves.

Identical twins attest to the power of heredity by their uncanny physical resemblance. But the most striking aspect of their performance on IQ tests for example, is that they are different. No matter how closely they grow up together, identical twins remain different people with unique experiences and they do not perform identically. It is impossible to image an individual free of the environment or a person performing without any influence of heredity. There is no controversy—both are important but so long as there are racism, poverty and exploitation, we can influence their futures by working to minimize these factors for people of all genetic constitutions.

The nucleus vs cytoplasm controversy has also resolved itself and that embryology graduate student is now an eminent professor of development biology, a field that includes both embryologists and geneticists.

Weather could play role in moth survival

As the range of Gypsy Moth increases throughout our area, effects of weather may play an important role in its survival.

Forestry Canada has assessed overwinter mortality of Gypsy Moth in Ontario since 1983. On average, winter temperatures caused mortality in 36% of egg masses sampled above the snowline on the stems of trees. Mortality of egg masses below the snowline, which was afforded some insulation from cold temperatures, averaged 5%.

Survival of egg masses may be quite variable due to the geographic location, stand composition, tree position and egg mass size.

Other studies indicate that egg mass survival is related to exposure time and temperature. Egg mass survival declines significantly as temperatures fall below the -25C mark and remain there longer than one day.

In two experiments, with the temperature at -25C and colder, survival was less than 80% after one day and 8% after three days.

Temperatures observed at Philip Graham's weather station in Minden show that last December's temperatures were -25C or colder for three days on two separate occasions. Early March also had a four day stretch of temperatures below -25C.

The weather has undoubtedly killed some egg masses but we will not know the overall impact until hatching is completed in late May to early June.

For more information contact your local Ministry of Natural Resources.

Acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of March 11 to March 17.

March 11, 14 mm rain,

4.8 pH, from Illinois, Michigan and southern Ontario.

March 12, 11 mm rain, 4.6 pH, from Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and southern Ontario.

March 16, 1 mm rain, 4.0 pH, from Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, and southern Ontario.

March 17, 1 cm snow, 4.4 pH, from Indiana, southern Michigan, and southern Ontario.

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly precipitation with pH less than 4.7 pH readings less than 4.0 are serious.

(from March 27 to April 9, 1990)

Toning tables — designed for SAFE, COMFORTABLE TONING and FLEXIBILITY

- * Lose Inches
- * Tone Up
- * Improve Your Self Image

Open:

Monday to Thursday 9 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Friday & Saturday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

HERE ARE SOME COMMONLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT TONING

Q: How long will it take to see results?

A: Usually, inch loss is noticeable after a few sessions. As with all fitness programs, you'll see the best results with regular use over an extended period of time. Strength, flexibility, and muscle tone will increase progressively.

Q: Will I build muscle?

A: No. The high repetition movements of this type of exercise insure toned and firmed muscles without added bulk.

Q: Will the sessions help me diet?

A: Absolutely. As inches come off and muscles are toned, we find the resolve to change poor eating habits strengthens, increasing the success of the overall exercise program.

Q: Can I use the machines after pregnancy?

A: Of course. The program can greatly improve post-natal muscle tone. You should have your 6 week check up first.

Q: Does the system reduce cellulite?

A: Cellulite is a controversial subject. While not everyone agrees on its cause, many experts believe that increased circulation and improved muscle tone in problem areas significantly reduces cellulite. We agree, and so do a large number of women that have used our system.

Q: What is the difference between this type of exercise and aerobics?

A: An aerobic exercise is one which is performed for 12 to 15 minutes and increases heart rate to 60% to 90% of maximum. This increases cardiovascular endurance. The exercise system here is not aerobic exercise. It improves muscular endurance and tone as well as increasing flexibility.

Q: How does this compare to Nautilus-type exercise?

A: In general, Nautilus-type equipment works by providing resistance to the body's movements. The unique Slender Concept system uses the same principle, with one important difference. Our machines move your body while you provide the resistance. Our systems high-repetition movements result in muscles that are toned and firmed without the strain to the body and the added bulk that Nautilus-type equipment can cause.

Q: How can you guarantee inch loss?

A: Since our high repetition movements tone and firm muscles without adding bulk, as long as your weight remains the same or decreases, and you follow our exercise guidelines, inch loss will occur, it's as simple as that, and we guarantee it.

Q: Will elderly people benefit?

A: Yes. Our gentle way of moving the body is perfect for older people too, because everyone can work at their own level. The increase flexibility and range of motion which occurs with use of the system is great for those with stiff or arthritic joints.

Kid's Korner

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters.

Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list. It's as easy as that. Have fun!

According to the calendar Spring is here. Let's hope we can get out into our gardens and prepare for a great year of beautiful flowers and veggies. Gardens need a great deal of work but they are most rewarding.

Speaking about Spring — don't forget to put your clocks ahead one hour as of 2 a.m. April 1st, or when you go to bed Saturday night March 31st.

The Minden and District Horticultural Society will hold their next general meeting on Tuesday, April 3rd, at 7:30 p.m. at the Library. The guest speaker will be Brenda Chambers and the topic will be on wild flowers and their ecology. This sounds like a topic that should be of interest to us all. Everyone welcome.

Florence Robinson was driven down to visit her sister-in-law Doris Negus in Lindsay by Janice and Jack Shaw last Thursday and they also visited with Jack's sister Barbara and husband Jack Cummings. Karen stayed to visit with her aunt for the school break. Happy Birthday, Florence, on April 1st.

The St. Paul's Anglican Women wish to thank those who contributed to the World Day of Prayer held March 2nd, at Hyland Crest. Over 70 people attended and $141.16 was sent to the Women's International Church Council.

Some of us may not be aware of the services available to us through our Library. The Talking Books are available to adults and children as long as you have a cassette player. All these books are available through loan as well as projectors. For projectors there is a minimum charge. Our library has many interesting facilities, let's all use them for our enjoyment.

Just a hint — to clean and deodorize carpets, mix together 2 cups corneal and 1 cup borax. Sprinkle over the carpet, leave one hour, then vacuum. For really severe stains, blot repeatedly with vinegar in soapy water. To deodorize rugs in homes where there is a pet, try sprinkling the rugs with a generous amount of baking soda before vacuuming.

Legion Euchre: Most lone hands — Ladies: Eleanor Pye; Men: Orval Francis. High man: Don Nye; High Lady: Lil Martin. Others — Lady: Martha Mansfield; Man: Jack Chilton. Draw winners are Marie Dennie; Casey Wilson; Lorna Bridgman; Shirley Stamp.

Club 35 Euchre — March 19 was well attended and the winners were: 50-50: Rhoda Woolner; Most Lone Hands: John Klok; High Lady: Verna Sawyer; High Man: Cliff Woolner; Others: Lil Allen, Murray MacKinnon, Murray Daniels. There will be a pot luck supper on Friday March 30th at 6 p.m. Everyone welcome.

Club 35 Bridge — March 20th. 1st: June Branning; 2nd: Thelda Weston; 3rd: Edith Russell. Tues. Feb. 27th, 1 p.m. will be a game day, bridge, euchre, cribbage. All welcome.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the families and friends of Jack Hills, Kinmount, Florence Robb, Ingoldsby and Earle Shipley of Haliburton.

Winners at St. Paul's Anglican Church card party on Thursday included for most lone hands, Ida Young, high lady, Jeanne Sears, while low lady went to Betty Hardy. High and low man to Sid Rowe and Jack Weekes respectively.

We thought our readers would be interested in this piece of wisdom. Our thanks to Carol Myles at Boppa's Restaurant for passing it along.

O God make me a better parent. Help me to understand my children to listen patiently to what they have to say and to respond to their questions kindly. Keep me from interrupting and contradicting them. Make me as courteous to them as I would have them be to me. Give me the courage to confess my sins against my children and ask them for forgiveness when I know I have done wrong.

May I not vainly hurt the feelings of my children. Forbid that I should laugh at their mistakes or resort to shame and ridicule as punishment.

Reduce the meanness in me. May I cease to nag, and when I am out of sorts, help me, O Lord, to hold my tongue. Blind me to the little errors of my children and help me to see the good things they do. Give me a ready world for honest praise.

Help me treat my children as those of their own age. Let me not expect from them the judgement of adults. Allow me not to rob them of the opportunity to wait upon themselves, to think, to choose, and to make their own decisions.

Forbid that I should ever punish them for my selfish satisfaction. May I grant them all their wishes that are reasonable and have the courage always to withhold a privilege which I know will do them harm.

Make me fair and just, considerate and companionable, so they will have genuine esteem for me. Fit me to be loved and imitated by my children. O God, do give me calm and poise and self control.

BEST WISHES!

FOREST FIRES

BURN MORE THAN TREES

During 1989, 50 forest fires occurred in the Haliburton and Minden areas. The months of April and May are the most dangerous time. Dead grass and leaves will allow a fire to spread very quickly resulting in the potential loss of life, dwellings and forested land.

Before you burn your grass, brush or debris, remember these important points:

1. You must obtain a fire permit;
2. Ensure that a responsible person tends the fire;
3. Keep the fire under control;
4. Upon completion, put your fire dead out. Even if it appears to be out, stir it, and drown it with water, again and again, until you're sure it is out.
5. No burning allowed between 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. (with the exception of Industrial Permits)

During the fire season (April 1st to October 31st) the Forest Fires Prevention Act requires you to obtain a permit to be kept at the burning site and shown to an officer upon request. If you don't, you could be fined up to $1,000.00, imprisonment up to three months and liable for any costs and expenses involved in extinguishing a resulting fire.

Chinese luncheon served

Tuesday morning the Chapel service was taken by Pastor J. Fast. The Residents appreciate the service and thank him for coming.

Tuesday afternoon we had Hymn Sing with Marjorie Rennick playing the piano and leading the singing. We thank her very much for helping us enjoy the afternoon.

At noon Wednesday we had a real treat. Mark Schell and staff made delicious Chinese food for our lunch in the auditorium, buffet style. Everyone enjoyed it very much. Since I was away that day I missed the lunch and I hear I missed a delicious chicken dinner as well. Thank you Mark and everyone who made it possible to enjoy these dinners.

In the evening Earl Cooper and Kathy Owens came to give us a happy evening of music for which we thank them immensely.

Thursday afternoon the ladies from the Baptist Church in Haliburton brought the tea party which was delicious and everyone heartily enjoyed all the goodies and thank the ladies sincerely.

It was a happy day for Ruby Lewis since her daughter May Cooper and her two sisters-in-law Marj and Ruth Bain from West Guilford assisted the Haliburton ladies. May was there to help Ruby with her lunch so she enjoyed it more. Thanks girls.

Friday was Happy Hour in the afternoon and the entertainment was Jock Mavor and his Scottish Dancers. They were piped into the auditorium by our friend Earl Cooper. Earl also played his fiddle and some of us shook a leg to his music. Doris accompanied him on the piano. Since St. Patrick's day was Saturday the Scot-

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

tish Dancers played a few Irish Tunes. There was a great crowd of residents and family members which helped to make the afternoon very special. This group will be back on April 20, 1990, and thank everyone who engineered the Happy Hour Friday.

Thursday evening Jim Carrell came and called bingo for us. The time really flies and we thank Jim very much for a happy hour.

Sunday night chapel service was conducted by Rev. John Burgess with Alice Jones playing the organ. It was a very informative service. There was a good number out. The Residents wheel chairs filled the space left by removal of one pew. It is so much better.

Alice Todd came home from her trip on Sunday.

Myrtle O'Halloran is back from St. Joseph's Hospital where she had treatment for a broken hip.

Grace Coburn had her daughter home on the weekend.

Pearl Lyle had her grandson Bob Lyle and family to see her Saturday.

Monday Evelyn Coleman was sick so was unable to have bible study. We hope she will soon be well again.

Monday night Ena and York Marion showed movies in the auditorium they were "Northern Games", "Caterpillar" and "Mountain Park". It's so surprising to see how those people in the North West Territories can do so many different athletic acts and have so much strength and endurance. Thanks Ena and York we appreciate seeing these movies.

From 2-4 p.m. Tuesday afternoon the Hyland Crest Auxiliary held their annual Card Party. Everyone was welcome and there was Euchre, Bridge and Crokinole were played with a lovely tea following. There were prizes for the high lady and high man as well as many door prizes. The charge was only $2.00. The auxiliary members worked very hard to raise funds to get things for our Home.

We thank them sincerely for their endeavors.

By the way please remember our spring Flea Market in the front parking lot May 19, 1990 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. We want what you don't want.

To my prayer sister, thanks for the St. Patrick's gift. I love it.

Sylvia Howard came here for a couple of weeks to get back her strength so she could return to her apartment which she did Tuesday. We all wish her health and happiness there.

Those who have been sick and have now returned to the dining room for meals are Bob Mitchell, Lorne Fry, Ada Turrall, May Horsley, Gerty McKay, and Lula Ferrill. Welcome back and glad you are better.

Ada Lewis is still in Peterborough. We hope she will soon feel better.

Wednesday evening the Pentecostal Church from Allsaw held service in the main lounge. Harrold Upton took the service and also sang. Pastor Murray was away for this service.

Two weeks ago I had my grandson Ricky and his friend Tim to visit me. Rick is an O.P.P. officer stationed at Sharbot Lake.

EarthFest being planned as 'environmental fair'

Plans are under way to hold an environmental fair in Haliburton village on June 16.

The event, dubbed EarthFest, is being organized by members of the environmental awareness group County of Haliburton Advocates for a Naturally Good Environment (CHANGE).

CHANGE members Eric Lilius and Virginia Muenzel attended last week's Dysart council meeting to gain permission to hold EarthFest in Head Lake Park.

Lilius said the purpose of the event is to "emphasize actions we need to take to bring the environment around." He said the world is suffering from "environmental degradation" and "we're all going to have to make some changes."

EarthFest will stress ecological themes, said Lilius, and will feature booths and games promoting the issue of environmental protection.

The fair will be divided into eight areas and will take place between the Rail's End Gallery, the band shelter and the Drag River.

Some of the features include information and demonstration booths involving the dangers of fossil fuels, the importance of cloth diapers as opposed to disposable, wilderness camping, toys from trash and people who build things out of recyclable material.

CHANGE already has commitments from Camp Wanakita, The Frost Centre and Carnarvon resident Gordon Smith to participate in the day's events.

In keeping with the ecological theme of EarthFest, Lilius said organizers would like to make the fair a "garbage-free" event.

While speaking with council, Lilius took the opportunity to comment on some of the environmental initiatives he would like to see the municipality undertake.

He said there is a lot of (more on page 28)

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

The Times Trivia Talent Team crushed its latest opposition on Wednesday

Here we are again rushing to make a deadline with the latest news and views from Branch 636. Since our last column we held a St. Patrick's Dance on March 10th. Our numbers were small but the blarney was there and the music was lilting and we all enjoyed. Comrades Ken and Vi Walsh fired up their Irish fervor and organized an Irish Pub Night which was on Friday March 16. The music, the dancing and the decor all had the flavour of green and again we all had fun, went home tired but happy.

Speaking of Ken and Vi Walsh, we are again re-

For Your Service

by Dave McAdam, Legion Branch 636

minding all of the Scottish Dance Lessons which they are holding in the Legion for 2 nights — Wednesday April 18 and Friday April 20 starting each night at 8:00 p.m. This should ready us for the April Showers dance on April 21st at 8:00 p.m.

We again wish to remind our membership of our April 4th Annual Meeting. It is important that you attend as this is when you may nominate any qualified member for the executive not already nominated and vote for the people who you feel are best to run your branch, or better become involved yourself with its operation. This meeting will be preceded by a Pot Luck Supper at 6:00 p.m. so stir up your favourite dish or toss your best salad and join the comrades for another delicious supper.

We must not fail to mention another Trivia Fun Night held on Wednesday last. As usual The Times Trivia Talent Team of Bill and Susan Beers, Wayne and Mary Anne Wilson and Lyn Winans took top esteem.

Three "Times" and out guys. Just kidding — we enjoyed you and all the rest of the participants, and Cub, Mary and Bill — you did an Al job of organizing and running the game.

We regret to advise that yet another of our Charter members, Comrade Stan Blears has passed away. Our deepest sympathy goes to you Aileen and your family. He will be missed by all of us.

By now, you the members will have received your Quarterly Bulletin now known as the 636 Blue Beret. Do hope you enjoyed it and if anyone can offer good ideas for improvement Lyn Winans will welcome such.

Three grants announced

Bill Scott is pleased to announce the approval of three projects in Victoria-Haliburton under the New Horizons Program of the federal department of Health & Welfare.

The Resource Materials Development Committee of Lindsay will receive a grant of $29,970. They have requested a contribution to organize a county-wide outreach program. The seniors will be involved in developing producing and distributing informational material to raise public awareness on programs and services available to seniors.

The Talbot River Seniors' Association and Women's Institute of Gamebridge have been awarded $19,010 to establish a seniors club and new recreational activities.

A contribution of $10,260 has also been granted to the Lindsay Singing Seniors to establish a choir and a dancing group.

The New Horizons Program is designed to encourage retired citizens to become more involved in community activity.

"YOU PAY ONLY WHEN THE JOB GETS DONE!"

The sale of a home involves many specialists, primarily your REALTOR. And much of the selling process carries up-front costs, which are borne by the REALTOR.

REALTORS work very hard for their fees. They get paid only when, or if, the house is sold. And because of this, you benefit not only from their expertise, but also from their desire to achieve the best for you from your most important asset: your home.

...and that can make a REAL difference!

REALTOR is a registered certification mark which identifies real estate brokers who are members of the

HALIBURTON DISTRICT REAL ESTATE BOARD and adhere to a strict Code of Ethics and Standards of Business Practice.

REALTOR is a trademark which identifies real estate practitioners who are members of The Canadian Real Estate Association and as such adhere to a strict Code of Ethics.

local support for the recycling project, but added that there is also a lot of confusion about how to recycle. He asked council to consider providing a recycling bin with a clear set of instructions describing what material can be recycled and how they should be prepared.

Lilius also suggested that the municipality begin looking at using recycled paper to meet their paper needs. The price of recycled paper is dropping while the quality is improving, he said.

Lilius said he would also like to see the township hold a hazardous waste management day, to allow people to properly dispose of items like paint, waste oil, and car batteries. "We'll suffer the consequences if these things go into the landfill site," he said.

Reeve Bill Davis said that Dysart had a hazardous waste disposal day in 1987 which was funded by the province. He agreed that such items should not be going into the landfill site and said it was something council would have to scrutinize.

Councillor Murray Fearrey said he would like to see council take a position on another environmental issue - the sale of soaps containing phosphates in local stores.

Davis said he hoped the stores, "as good corporate citizens" would take action on their own to offer phosphate-free products. Fearrey suggested that perhaps the Business Improvement Area (BIA) could be approached to look into the issue.

"If we want the Ministry of the Environment to do the job, we have to clean our own doorstep," said Davis. Dysart's clerk, Donna McCallum told council that the township uses only phosphate-free cleaning chemicals.

As far as the organizing of Earthfest, Lilius said he would like to have access to the bandshell, and electricity, to accommodate various performances that will take place during the event. He also asked council to provide some toilets.

Muenzel said there are plans to have natural food booths set up at the fair. And although they aren't going to try and make money, she said the food will be sold to cover cost.

Davis said that municipal policy doesn't allow people to sell things in the park, and suggested that any booths where food or clothes will be sold should be set up near the Gallery on property owned by the Guild of Fine Arts. Council agreed to forward Lilius' concerns and suggestions to the Environmental Committee for consideration.

NEVER A CAR THEIR AROUND WHEN YOU NEED ONE: Four OPP officers who had been diving in the Gull River last week had to break into their van after discovering that no one had brought a spare set of keys. A borrowed coat hanger and some professional expertise soon had the group on their way back home. The four divers, from Apsley, Coboconk and Millbrook swam from Rotary Park to the Main Street bridge as part of their regular scuba training.

Petro-Can will be made a private company

In its budget for the coming year, the government announced its intention to privatize Petro-Canada. By selling shares of the Crown corporation to the public, the government will ensure that Petro-Canada has the capital it needs to continue to prosper as we approach the year 2000.

To properly understand the decision to privatize Petro-Canada at this time, some background is needed. The company was created in 1974 during a severe international oil crisis. Its initial mandate was to develop trade deals with other countries, give the government a window on the industry, and ensure Canada's energy security.

However, the world oil situation has changed since 1974, and state ownership and control in this important sector is no longer necessary. In the past fourteen years, Petro-Canada has only concluded on state-to-state deal, and such arrangements are no longer an important element of the world oil market. As for the window-on-industry issue, the government has the information and legislative authority it needs to ensure Canada's energy security.

In 1984, the government directed Petro-Canada to operate and compete in the same manner as a private company. In the past few years, oil companies, Petro-Canada among them, have worked together on exploration projects that have led to the discovery of more than a billion barrels of estimated reserve.

Today, with excess international oil supplies and more stable prices, the industry must look at ways

Report From Ottawa

by Bill Scott, M.P.

of financing the development of Canada's massive reserves. Through the sale of shares to the public Petro-Canada will have the necessary development capital and still remain Canadian-controlled.

The Liberal and NDP opposition have criticized the government's decision to privatize Petro-Canada. They claim private shareholders will not be able to defend Canada's interests if a new oil crisis emerges. What Petro-Canada needs is financial room to manoeuvre to become an independent, integrated and world-class oil company.

Since its election in 1984, the Progressive Conservative government has been following a privatization program that is contributing to increased productivity, efficiency and economic growth. Through privatization, Petro-Canada will have the tools it needs to meet its competition head-on, and continue to grow in the years ahead.

Developer says Payne, Elliott and Berry have got to go

Editors note: The following letter was read at the March 8 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council and submitted for publication, at that time, by the author.

As a 20 year resident of Minden township, a contractor and a voter, I am demanding the resignation of Deputy Reeve Bern Berry, Planning Advisory Committee Dean Elliott, and PAC member Bill Payne for the following reasons and based on the following story:

I move to Minden 20 years ago, set up business as a small general contractor and muddled my way along for eight years. Then I had an opportunity to go to Brighton, Ont. as a partner in the White House Dining Lounge and 53 acres of beautiful property in the middle of town. I turned the White House into a very successful restaurant and, after three years of daily negotiating and fighting with local councillors, I finally put through a plan of subdivision for 150 houses. The problem was, after three years of financial drain and fighting, I was a successful poverty case.

I came back home to Minden flat broke with my tail between my legs, vowing never to tackle municipal politicians again. I decided to go back to work in my original trade as a glass company manager and am very successful in this capacity, completing such projects as the National Art Gallery in Ottawa, and the Dome Stadium in Toronto. But, I am 50 years old and I want to come home.

A year and a half ago, the town of Minden elected virtually a whole new council with intelligent, progressive people such as Ray Moore and Lewis Stevens and, I thought, Mike Maher and Bob Sisson. Deputy Reeve Bern Berry was acclaimed, nobody voted for him. Then this new council hired a supremely intelligent, very progressive, open-minded, extremely competent and energetic building inspector, Brad Bradamore.

In this new, refreshing political climate, I figured it was safe to start investing in my community and looked forward to establishing an aluminum fabrication business in Minden. I had a large portion of my property zoned Commercial and am right now in the middle of building a motel, that everybody can see beside the Jay Lake Tent and Trailer Park, where I have lived for the last 20 years. I bought more property on Bob Lake Rd. to start building houses, I convinced Bradamore to stop trying to fix up the old McBrien house and sell me the property zoned Commercial in three separate lots, so that I could tear down the old house, cut down the trees, excavate it and build three stores, one of which would have been a glass company that I would have run, one would have been a stereo and record shop, one would have been a fish and chips store and arcade. I had three definite tenants and the six apartments above would have been a help to the rental situation in this community. I also became involved in Mount Minden Development. I bought Mount Minden from Elsie Walker and attempted to develop it.

Then everything fell apart, I appeared before the PAC with a proposal for Mount Minden Development Corporation and was told that I could proceed with seven severances and a zoning change to lots fronting on Hwy. 121 and that the rest of the property had to be treated as a plan of subdivision. It was, in my mind completely settled, and it had been discussed that these severances would be allowed to finance the rest of the project. I had prepared severance applications in advance, anticipating fair treatment from the PAC because the Chairman and the Deputy Reeve were not present. I immediately left the meeting, went to the County offices and paid $2000 for the severances and zoning changes.

At the next PAC meeting, I appeared to request minor changes in the measurements to conform to topographical constraints. I was informed that the whole project would have to go through as a plan of subdivision. (Present at this meeting were the Chairmen of the PAC, Elliott and Berry.) I said this was not the agreement, I had already paid the money for the severances, and Payne (who, incidentally, I still owed $2000 from an old electrical contract and who was obviously all too pleased to get even with me for not paying him yet) looked at me with the most angelic smile on his face and said "Oh no Bruce, we didn't agree to that. Don't you remember?" I was dumbfounded and shocked because at that point I knew I'd been shafted and all my plans for everything were immediately destroyed. I looked at Elliott and Berry and saw the most evil smiles I have ever seen on any villains anywhere and Elaine McCrea looked like a satisfied Cheshire cat. I just picked up my papers and walked out and I will never appear before these "Pillars of the Community" again.

Consequently, we sold Mount Minden and I list my Commercial lot in Minden for sale, which Councillor Mike Maher calls a scar and which is a big improvement over ramshackle old house and dead trees falling out over the street that was there before. I will not be setting up a fabrication shop in Minden as long as things are so unsettled and Berry holds office.

Berry is creating this new bylaw retarding development as a personal vendetta out of his personal dislike for previous building inspector Bradamore whom he could never get along with and who is supported in his personal feelings by Councillor Maher who once threatened to squeeze the pimple of Brad's shoulders meaning his head (nice talk for a former police officer). This new bylaw is purely a concoction of a repressive and hostile Deputy Reeve, supported by a fellow former policeman who supports an overwhelming majority of Berry's motions in council. The new bylaw is also supported by Councillor Bob Sisson. Sisson's position on the new bylaw surprises me considering his personal involvement and employment at Home Hardware who excavated and moved ground for over a year before they built their hardware store which would not have been possible under this new, totally insane, anti-development bylaw which some members of this community are trying to force on all of us.

As a result of all these actions, I will not do anything in this town until these people are out and a stable political climate returns to this community. I will continue to press for the removal of Berry, Elliott, and Payne and the promotion of progressive, intelligent people such as Lewis Stevens, Ray Moore, Verne Graham, Morgan Loucks, and Jim Garbutt. I would hope that Councillors

Maher and Sisson adopt a more independent, intelligent approach in their duties as Minden councillors while their term remains.

Also, a reminder to municipal employees from a voter: when you get involved in politics, you can't win. Politicians come and go but civil servants that do the job they were hired to do and are good at it will remain. Try to stay clean and above it all, and remember, building inspectors don't seem to last long in Minden.

Sincerely,
Bruce Harris.

P.S. In regards to Elliott, I am asking for his resignation as Chairman of the Planning Advisory Committee because of his involvement in real estate sales, as is fellow PAC member, Payne, and, unless a project gets the nod from them it doesn't get passed. They cannot possibly be impartial to the various proposals put before the PAC given their potential for personal financial gain.

Also, I feel a government investigation into the affairs of Deanwood Investments might be in order to see if there is the possibility of a conflict of interest existing, and hence appropriate action being necessary.

Clothes recycling depot

Editor:

If your plan to do any spring house-cleaning you will want to know about the upcoming Clothes Recycling Depot at Archie Stouffer School, Minden. (The proper term is "reuse" because the clothes will be reused as opposed to being made into new products which is what recycling really means). As an Enrichment Project, Susan Carr and Sarah Ladaurantaye of 5B are organizing a depot for the week of March 26 -30.

If you have any clothing (preferably washed) that you wish to bring in, there

Musical was marvelous

Editor:

On the evening of Thursday, March 8, I had the pleasure of going to see the musical play "Cosmic Pinball" put on by the Grade 8 students of Archie Stouffer School. I would just like to say congratulations to everyone who took part in presenting this play for a job well done.

I had a most enjoyable evening and look forward to seeing more of these plays in the future. Thanks again Grade 8 students.

Children need more than a Band-aid solution dations as early as January 1989. Why has there been no attempt to rectify this problem by following these suggestions, other than inserting a small window in one of the classrooms and extending the air conditioning supply to other rooms?

Why was this token, band-aid solution, this miraculous effort at compliance not made for approximately seven months after the advice from the local health unit was received?

My concerns have been verbally expressed on a number of occasions, since September 1989, to various board members who appear to regard this subject as non-problematic, as long as it's encountered by assuming the posture of an ostrich. Perhaps, by some quirk of fate or divine intervention, a fresh breeze will magically blow through the hallways and dislodge the offensive 'thorn in the side' of our bureaucratic delusion of wellness. In this case, contrary to the opinion of those who are in a position to initiate necessary modifications, the system is not working. "Bright and cheerful" do not imply an adequately ventilated space, as confirmed by too many time-consuming tests to date. It isn't necessary to pull a plant out by the roots to know that it needs water. It is also unnecessary to perform any more studies to know that changes are necessary now in order to provide an optimal as possible (let alone "acceptable") environment for our kids and their teachers, who live in this setting several hours weekly.

Portables may indeed be a poor 'alternative', with a predominantly "stuffy, stinky and close" atmosphere, but if so, why are they allowed to function in these obviously sub-standard conditions as well?

Why not contact someone with expertise in the field of indoor environmental assessment to evaluate the status of all of our schools in Haliburton County? There are seminars sponsored by the Dept. of Education dealing with this subject and individuals who are trained in this type of investigation could offer practical, curative advice that may prove to be worthwhile and implemented with not too much difficulty for both immediate and long-term benefits.

"We're not poisoning the children", another statement by one of the trustees, is a presumption that needs careful re-evaluation. Excessive carbon dioxide levels and insufficient oxygen supply, indicative of poor air exchange, are factors that have shown to induce cumulative health ramifications. These may not be immediately evident as acute disease manifestations, but certainly can show up later on, with continued exposure as inattentiveness, drowsiness, behavioural and learning disorders, headaches, respiratory distress, lowered immune response or central nervous system dysfunction. We may have been inadvertently subjecting our offspring to a slow bullet, and silence in this issue amounts to inexcusable complicity.

Congratulations and thanks are due to members of the Minden Home and School Association for their consistent endeavours to ensure a long-overdue resolution to this deplorable situation. Fresh air should not be considered an unaffordable commodity, especially when the health and welfare of our kids is at stake. Commitment to amending this static and serious situation should be the main priority of those entrusted with the public faith, so let's get on with the show.

Gordon Smith,
Carnarvon.

More improvements needed at school

NOTE: The following letter is addressed to the Haliburton County Board of Education.

The Archie Stouffer Home and School Association is delighted that the board has found money in the budget to install windows in the Minden primary school. Admitting natural light and allowing the children the opportunity to focus on long distances goes a long way to providing a healthier environment.

However, we were disappointed that the board has chosen not to install the air-to-air heat exchanger as recommended by the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Labour and this Home and School Association.

We realize that the board finds itself in a "limbo" situation regarding the real future of the IGA school. We all hope for the necessary funding for a new accommodation, however, we also realize this may not happen as soon as we would like. If it comes to pass that we must use the IGA building longer than the present lease, then we will again insist that an air-to-air heat exchanger be installed. Until then, however, we request that the board make a schedule for the teachers to follow, so that the windows and doors be opened first thing in the morning, prior to the students' arrival and periodically during the day for the introduction of fresh air.

We were very disappointed to read Mr. Pettit's comments to the newspapers, which, we note, failed to mention the fact that most other board members are better aware of our opinions than he is, but unfortunately failed to correct him. Perhaps he could take the time to reread our report to better educate himself to our concerns.

Yours truly,
Archie Stouffer
Home & School Association.

Writing took more time than working

Editor:

If Mr. Bradamore had spent one half as much time and energy carrying out his duties as "By-Law Officer", as he does writing letters to the Editor, he might have had more success in correcting some of the obvious zoning infractions which were taking place during his tenure of office.

G.G. Robinson,
Blairhampton.

Language has a price on its head

Editor:

RE: Snowdon Council & English only By-Law.

So there's no underlying intolerance for French, it's just a matter of economics. We can mark this event on our calendar as the point where language, like almost everything else, has its price.

According to Snowdon Council, it's not worth much, considering they are prepared to bar the door long before anyone even come to call.

I can't decide which is more disturbing and subversive—the lack of respect for historical Canadian/Cultural values or the fact that language has been degraded to a commodity with a "price" on its head.

Peter R. Elson, Gelert.

Contagious enthusiasm

Editor:

Congratulations to the Archie Stouffer grade 8's on a magnificent performance Thursday evening of "Cosmic Pinball". Kudos to teachers Kathy Rogers, Sybil Roodenburg, Dale McConnell, Liz Bloomfield, Betty Mark and Glen Carter for their creative guidance, artistic sensitivity and skillful assistance in a thoroughly enjoyable production. The music, choreography and story-line were enacted with contagious enthusiasm and the play's timely theme of acknowledging the need to contribute to the well-being of planet Earth was well-stated.

All-in-all, this was a very pleasurable, refreshing prelude to spring and a credit to all of the budding talent involved.

Gordon Smith,
Carnarvon.

Helping others in need

will be a pick-up box by the main office during school hours. These clothes will be delivered to 4C's in Haliburton for reuse throughout the county. If you can't make this depot there are tentative plans for another one at the end of April.

The organization 4C's is sponsored by four churches in Haliburton and once the clothes are sorted, they are sold at a cost of $1.00 per bag of clothes. This money is then used to help out families throughout the county who are in need.

We feel that this is a good way to encourage the re-use of clothing. Please help us by bringing your extra clothing to our depot.

STEWART, MARION IRENE (nee Ellerby). Family and friends paid their last respects recently to Marion Irene Stewart, a Myrtle area native who passed away February 7, 1990 in her 92nd year.

Mrs. Stewart (nee Ellerby) was the wife of George A. (Sandy) Stewart, who started his career in banking in Stouffville. She was the last member of David Lambert and Lydia Blois Ellerby's family of 10.

She was born in Myrtle on December 18, 1897 and was educated at Uxbridge Public and High Schools. She moved to Uxbridge as a child at age five.

Later, she was a graduate of the University of Toronto's Faculty of Education. Her teaching positions were first in Picton, then in Robert Land School in Hamilton and later for 16 years at Williamson Road School in Toronto.

She was also a Toronto Teacher's Champion Badminton Player. After her marriage, she moved to a number of towns and cities where she took an active part in many civic activities as president of women's institutes, Pro Patria Chapter of IOOE, Anglican Church women's and youth groups as well as in Red Cross.

Her hobbies were flower arranging, creating wall hangings (350 in two years), writing poetry and historical articles.

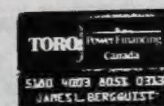

She loved flowers and left a monument to herself of lovely flower gardens in every community she lived. She was well known for her talks on different subjects in many churches and clubs. Her parents were both born in Holland Landing. Her grandfather, David Ellenby built a woollen mill in 1815.

He had a farm a few miles from Samuel Lount's blacksmith shop and is reputed to have shot one of the pursuers of William Lyon Mackenzie, enabling Mackenzie to flee to the United States.

Her father was a graduate of British American Business College in Toronto where the Kind Edward Hotel now stands.
